TERRIBLE TRIALS OF A YOUTH. -One of the Saratoga correspondents, whose name is 'Lan-," was very badly treated when the gas went out so suddenly the other night. The story is a touching one and he tells it well: It was ten o'clock. The stage drove up from the depot. Almost every lady expected her husband on the train. Many young ladies expected their sweet-hearts. Neither the stage, the driver, nor the horses were visible. From force of habit the passengers felt their way to the reception room. I got mixed up with the erowd. Twenty-five married ladies, seven old maids, and four young ladies commenced greeting the passengers in the darkness. "My dear William! why did you stay so long?" exclaimed a sweet young wife, and then she threw her arms around my neck—our lips met I wasn't going to be a darned fool. Far different. Now, a dear, sweet, liquid-eyed brunette threw her arms wildly around me. "O, nette threw her arms wildly around me. Eugene, why did you not write oftener?" she sobbed, and then she sank sweetly on my bosom. I said, "Weep not, Julia," and then I kissed her sweetly twenty-two times. It was delicious. It made me think of my first wife and my college days at Yale. A ponderous matron now approached-dress decollete, hair matron now approached—dress decollete, hair a la pompadour. She took me in her arms and whispered, "O. Charles, did you bring my beautiful dog—did you?" "Madame, my name is not Charles, and I hate dogs. I'd kill every d—d—d." but she fell fainting at my feet. A sweet: golden-haired blonde now took my hand. She pressed it gently, say-"Dear Albert, I know it is you, and I am so glad to see you. You won't dance with Lizzie Smith, now. will you?" I said I wouldn't. Then she held her cheek close to mine. I was hot with love's young hope, and pure, sweet affection. We were happy. None but a wicked man would have broght sadness to this sweet, pure young

I remarked. 'How much, darling?" A heap.' "O, I am so happy," she murmured, as she twisted her tingers in my auburn hair and held me in sweet embrace. This sort of thing went on for seventeen minutes, when C. Leland appeared in the distance with a tallow candle. I quietly withdrew and mingled unobserved in the crowd. As the candle appeared, twenty-seven young gentlemen were seen shaking hands with as many young ladies in the different corners. I have seldom seen such an effecting scene. It was a great display of affection. One married gentleman was holding the hands of two ladies. The hair of the ladies was generally crimpless, while the hair of the young gentle-men did not display a parting place. I reflected "How kin such things be, and overcome us like a summer shower?" I consulted with J. Billings. He says they kan't. So I resolved to leave the place. I came back to Congress they all had one great defect—they dyed the Hall and found the young ladies and young gentlemen having a grand ball by candle light. Each young lady held in her hands a penny dip. They flew through the Lancers like ghosts in "Macbeth." Eight streaks of light made a terrible criss-cross as the dance went on. When the grand chain came the lights revolved like a gigantic Fourth of July pin-wheel. It was a grand night for Saratoga. The young people liked it. Some prefer darkness rather than light, because their ways are and therefore should be shunned by all who

A LOST BOY DISCOVERED IN A CIRCUS.— The Chicago Times says : -- About seven years ago Johnny Hyde was of the age of eight years. Like most boys, next to the Sabbath school he | the poisonous articles claim to do, should have loved the circus. For weeks he would save the money which his father gave him to put in the growth of the hair positively in a few days; missionary box to buy tickets for the exhibition. and when once seated under the canvass would fasten his eyes on the bespangled artists, and shout with delight at their graceful evolutions on the padded piatforms on the backs of the horses. The talented clown, overflowing with humor and wit of the highest order, was also appreciated by him. Johnny couldn't get enough of the circus at his home in Dubuqe, so he resolved to run away with the next company that came along, and did so. Father and mother, and sisters and brothers, all wept for Johnny for a long time, until they gave him up for dead. A few days ago Johnny's sister, Miss Emma Hyde, came to this city to visit some friends and relatives. On Wednesday evening, in their company, she visited the circus now performing here. During the show, as Miss Emma was watching the daring performance of a bareback rider, a healthy boy of about fifteen years came by the party in which she was seated, shouting, "Faus, faus; have a fau, sir?" Miss looked into his face, recognized her long-lost brother, and fainted. He did not even stagger at the recognition. He only said, "How are you, Em?" and continued the sale of his merchandise. Johnny's people are in good circumstances, and as his experience has convinced him that life in a circus is not all play and no work, he will probably retire to private life.

THE ROOSEVELT HOSPITAL IN NEW YORK. -For the erection and support of this charity, Mr. James H. Roosevelt bequeathed the bulk of his fortune. The site was chosen and purchased a short time after his death, in 1863, and includes one hundred and sixty thousand square feet. The entire cost of the building and ground is estimated at one million of dollars. Before the close of the present year, a portion of the hospital will be ready for occupancy. It is made of Philadelphia brick, trimmed with Ohio freestone, and will consist of a main or administrative building, flanked by four | which will be sold at greatly reduced prices from pavilions, two on each side. The pavilions will now until the first of September. be ornamented by ventilating turrets, but the jy 6 W. B. WADDEY, 74 King st. be ornamented by ventilating turrets, but the main building is to be crowned by an observatory. The wards are to be commodious and comfortable, indeed every precaution has been observed to render this hospital an asylum of convenience and rest to the ailing and diseased. Large spaces will be reserved between the pavilions, so that a perpetual current of air may be maintained. In these spaces summer houses and fountains will be arranged, and the surrounding grounds beautifully laid out. In the rear, and at the corner of Tenth avenue and to whom said estate is indebted will please pre-Fifty-eighth street, will be a two-story building, known as the Mortuary. On the first floor will be the dead, autopsy, inquest, and waiting rooms, and on the second floor the anatomical museum. # HOWE'S

Lock-Stitch Sewing Machines

Are world-renowned for durability and simolicity of machinery, the perfection of the tenions, and the unparalleled wide range of work they are capable of performing without change or readjustment.

At the great "Exposition Universelle" in Paris, in 1867, they were awarded the highest prize -a massive Gold Medal--over 52 competitors, and the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor was conferred on Elias Howe as the original inventor of the Sewing Machine.

The growing appreciation of their character; istic excellence by the intelligent people of this F. G. SWAINE, country was clearly shown by the unprecedented sales of the Howe Sewing Machine during the past year, being far in excess of those of any other one patent. More than 1000 of these excellent machines are in daily use in the cities of Washington and Georgetown, and of this very large number a single case of dissatisfaction cannot be found.

They make the "Howe," or "Lock-Stitch," which has the same beautiful appearance on either side of the fabric sewed, and they are the only machines that make this beautiful stitch to COMM'N. & FORWARDING MERCH'TS perfection.

A branch office has been recently established at No. 105, King street. If you are prejudiced in favor of any particular machine, at least examine the Howe before you purchase. Remember that Mr. Howe was the original inventor of the Sewing Machine, and gave twenty years of his life to perfecting this machine.

Every Howe Machine is warranted for ten years' constant use by the company, and is kept always in perfect order by the local agency. Purchasers are thoroughly instructed at their residences, by competent instructresses, in every variety of plain and ornamental sewing. An efficient lady operator will be in constant attendance at the office, and machine stitching of every description will be neatly and promptly J. KARR, General Agent,
